A very well attended and interesting meeting of the Kentucky Hort cultural Society took place last Saturday. Several old members stated that the display of fruits and flowers, at the last annual exhibition, surpassed any exhibition ever before held by the society. The members, generally, seemed highly pleased with the choice fruits and are plants collected together; but some of them omplained of the want of arrangement in regard to their proper display, which fault, however, will be remedied in future, by the appointment of a special committee to arrange the contributions and decorate the hall. The treasurer presented his annual report, and a general regret was exressed that the receipts of the sociaty during the ast season fell short of the disbursements, mainowing to the fact that many members of the ociety had failed to pay up their subscription fees for the present year. It was thought by several that the receipts from the auction sales on the last day of the exhibition were very materially reduced by the rain-storm that prevailed and prevented many from attending.

These casualties, however, were made light of and with unabated zeal the members discussed their arrangements for another season's display of fruits, berries and flowers, that should surpass the exhibitions of any previous year! A committee was appointed to collect members' ees past due, and to solicit donations to free the ociety from debt. A proposition was also introuced to solicit an annual appropriation from the State, pending the discussion of which the society adjourned to meet again at 10 o'clock next Several specimens of fruit were tested by the ociety, and it was understood that similar tests would be made at their future weekly meetings.

OPERA .- We are glad to announce that our nusic loving citizens are to have the pleasure of hearing Parodi's fine troupe once more. It being known that their engagements in St. Louis did cited by a large number of those who had been charmed by their music to give another performance to-night. They have already announced heir intention of doing this, and offer a more than sually attractive bill. The evening commences with the first act of Verdi's opera of "La Traviata," the plot of which is taken from the original story of Camille, by Dumas, the younger. Signorina Alaimo takes the character of Violetta.

The entire opera of "Lucretia Borgia" follows, with Parodi as Lucretia, Gnone as Alonzo, and Sbriglia as Gennaro. This is a cast which could and ladies' stand is 176 feet in length and of suita hardly be surpassed. Parodi will be perfectly at | ble width. eaders to the enterprise in the hands of Professor loober, in establishing an institution for a general diffusion of musical attainment, by organizing lasses for gentlemen and ladies, and conducting them through a thorough course of elementary and practical lessons in vocal music. We are pleased to hear of the success he had in some of his meetings, and the general belief in the superiority of his system of teaching. He has proven most conclusively that the excuses which many them a regular lesson, and gradually got them to singing, and large numbers of them who had never known one note from another, previously, ook several new tunes which they had never heard before, and in from one to two trials, sung them by note, without help from Prof. H., or any at the time. He is pronounced by all who have given him a fair trial to be a most skillful and thorough teacher. Some of the most respectable citizens who attended his class during the summer say "he has very few equals, and no superior." His system is reduced to such simplicity and yet thoroughness, that any little child can at once comprehend it and become a proficient scholar .-Any one attending his preliminary lessons, must be convinced that the idea which many entertain that music cannot be learned in classes, but must be done by private tuition, is talse. Prof. H. will demonstrate his method in the South Hall of Masonic Temple, to-morrow, (Tuesday,) and next Thursday evenings, commencing precisely at 784 o'clock, to which our readers are invited. We urge all to go. Those ladies who cannot attend at night, will meet him this afternoon and Wed-

ACADEMY OF SCIENCE .- The "Society for Advancement of Science," after a recess during the hot summer months, will resume its operations this evening, at 8 e'clock, and its sittings, to which the public are always welcome, will take place every other Monday evening until hot weather comes again. Woodlawn Race Course. The great feature of the Mechanics' is Har-The turf has, in general, been indifferently pat-onized in this State for many years. But its glories, which culminated when Gray Eigle, the pet of the State, was beaten by Wagner in 1839 is to be revived in the establishment of another race course in this vicinity, under favorable auspices. Oakland, the scene of that memorable race, which has a high place in the annals of the urf, is to be succeeded by Woodlawn Course .-The success of Oakland was prejudiced by causes not necessary to be named, but its ruin was completed when the distance flag, to the grief the whole State, went down in the face of the gallant Gray Eagle. More money was lost and won on this race than any other ever run in the county. The Kentuckians got broke, for they never hedged a dollar, and quit in disgust. There are hundreds of gentlemen here who have never since been on a race course. But time conquers; and the lovers of the turf are even now snuffing its excitement in anticipation of the races which commence over Woodlawn Course on Monday

The new course is seven miles east of the city. out easy of access by means of the L,. F. & Lex. R. R., which passes its southern boundary. It morises about 140 acres, which was purchased for $20,000, and the improvements, such as stables. and other necessary buildings, cost about $25,000 additional. The grounds are inclosed by a fence eight feet high.

There are three tracks, one for trotting and pacing horses, another for running norses, and inside of this is the exercise or training track. Both the trotting and running courses are of oblong shape. The track of the former is 57 feet in width, and early a level. There is a very slight rise from the entrance gate, which is near the second quarter pole, to the home stretch. From this point the descent is so gradual as scarcely to be perceptible, with one slight indentation for about 75 yards. The soil is elastic, and when it has had nough work, will be what is termed a "fast" track. It has a main stand, judges, distance stands, &c. The first named is 176 feet in length, and capable of seating about 700 persons. It is substantially built, and provided with necessary inveniences. The track is in daily use by the rainers, who are getting their horses ready for heir work next week. We reach the track devoted to running horses exclusively by passing through the trotting urse on the south from the railroad depot, or hose who prefer to make the trip in carriages enter from a road northwest of the course. The unning track at the lower draw gate below, where the horses start, is sixty-three feet nine aches in width. Above the ladies stand it is rty feet wide. It is undulating, with a considable rise on the back stretch to the last quar-Thence it slopes to within fifty yards of the udges' stand. The soil is springy, and it is be-eved favorable to fast time. Besides the judges and distance stands, there are two others, the public stands, and that for stockholders and ladies and invited guests .-The public stand is 204 feet in length, has six ows of seats, and can accommodate nearly a thousand persons. In this building there is a dining room 48 feet in length, a bar-room which can hold a great deal more liquor than fellow's ought to drink, and other refreshments. The Affair at Hopkinsville. The Hopkinsville Press gives the following tesimory in the case of Capt. J. D. Jackson for killing Col. Western in a street fight:

The Commonwealth introduced Mr. C. E. Ritter, who being sworn stated substantially— That, in the forenoon, between 11 and 12 o'clock, he was at the corner of Court street, near the City Hotel; that he saw Capt. Jackson coming up Main street towards the Hotel; Col. Western was sitting either in a chair beyond the steps or on the steps of the door in front of Drs. Webber & O'Brien's office, (east side of 3d street from corner of Court, some twenty or thirty steps from City Hotel. some twenty or thirty steps from City Hotel.) As Capt Jackson passed the office door, he bowed very politely. Witness was not near enough and did Capt Jackson passed the office door, he bowed very politely. Witness was not near enough and did not hear what was said. It seemed that just after Jackson passed the door Western said something to him; saw Western nod his head and appeared to be speaking; Jackson turned, bowed politely and seemed to say something in response, turn, start off again; saw Jackson turn again, walk back to Western, when both apperced to be speaking in an excited tone and manner. As Western attempted to rise Jackson struck him about the head with his fist; when they were both up some persons intervened to they were both up some persons intervened to separate them—could not say who it was—Jack-son stood then with his back rather towards witness, Western facing toward him. Saw Western attempt to put his hand in his bosom, as if to draw a weapon; just at that time heard pistol dis-charged—saw after that a pistol in the hands of Jackson. After the shot Western started in the office, passed just in the door, and returned directly with something bright and shining in his hand (which witness took to be a knife; when Western came out of the office, saw Jackson start towards him; as they clutched Jackson's foot eithr slipped or he was tripped and fell with Western over him; in that condition the crowd gathered around, and he could see no more for several niputes; when he saw them again they were part. ed. Saw Western a short time after the occur-rence; he was dead—he died from the wound, &c. Here the prosecution announced that they would rest their case in chief, with the privilege of introducing any rebutting evidence they might

The defense then introduced Mr. Starling, who deposed substantially 23 follows: Witness did not see the beginning of the difficulty, saw only he close. Heard a pistol shot just before noon the day of trial,) looked out, saw who was engaged, ran up to the spot; when he arrived, Jackson and Western were parted; saw two pistols lying and western were parted; saw two pistols lying on the pavement, one was a Colt's naval repeater, the other a pocket Deringer; picked up the repeater and had it then in court. [Here witness produced from his belt a very large Colt's five chambered repeater, which he delivered to the court.] He stated that he had seen Western with a pistol of that parenter and he helicied it. a pistol of that character, and he believed it was the same; he thought that he was sufficiently ac-quainted with it; warrant him in saying that istol was Western's. Witness had seen Jackson a short time before the rencounter, down near his drug store—some 100 or 160 yards from the place they last met saw Western also. Western had passed, in an abrupt, insulting manner, by Jackson; from what ne saw he was of cointon that Weetern was seek-ng a difficulty with Jackson.

The defendant then introduced Dr. J. O'Brien, who stated that he was present at the time the difficulty took place. Witness was sitting just on the inside of the door of his office, and Col. West-ern was sitting in the door, or on the first step beow the threshold, Capt. Jackson came up street on the pavement; as he passed, witness sa-luted him, which Jackson returned; just as he passed by and when he was beyond the door so far as to exclude him from witness' view, saw West-ern nod his head and thought as he did so he utered an exclamation. Jackson returned, bowed. and asked Western if he spoke to him? Western replied, "No, sir." After this some words passed of an angry character, and Jackson moved up toward Western, and as Western was rising up from his seat they clinched; witness then endeavored to separate them, and for that purpose took hold of Western, and got rather between the parties.—

Some gentleman, in light clothes, took hold of Western, at the time witness took hold of Western, at the time witness took hold of Western. Jackson. At the time witness took hold of Wes-tern, could not say what passed between the par-ties. Witness said he was much excited himself, and could not recollect what was said by either of them after they came together. When witness was endeavoring to separate the parties, saw Western thrust his hand into his bosom as if to draw a weapon; that he then got from between them, and as he did so heard the pistol shot. Did not see a pistol in the hands of Jackson until afame out with the pistol (pointing to the one on the table) in his hand and presented it at Jackson; that Jackson dodged down, run towards him and gathered the pistol, or Western's arm just above possible to give a more connected account, as things passed in such rapid succession, and he was so much excited, he could not possibly recall with Western at the store of Louis Elb. on Main street, and that from what Western said to him, the impression was made on his mind that Wes-tern offered him $1000 to kill Jackson; that he told Western that $1000 could not buy him, that he was not for sale. Several days after he told he was not for sale. Several days after he told Jackson of what had passed between Western and

The defense then introduced J. D. Crafton, Jas. S. Phelps, Jas. McCarroll and G. A. Champlin, who severally deposed to facts which were calculated to produce the impression that Western had in divers ways endeavored, during the morn-ing, to bring about the difficulty; they also gave ir opinion that from what they saw such was

Some other evidences, of an unimportant character was introduced, after which the defense reseed their case. The counsel then agreed and subnitted the case to the court without argument. The court then pronounced its judgement, c ng that there were reasonable grounds for that the case should undergo the investigation of the higher tribunals. It was the judgement of the court, that Capt. Jackson should give bail for his appearance at the ensuing term of the Christian Circuit Court, in the sum of $2,000, which he gave

Yesterday a young German girl, about fifteen years old, came to the city from Webster, where her parents reside, and sought for M. De Lave, the rope-walker. She inquired for him at Falls Field, at the Exchange Hotel, where he boards, and at other places, refusing to tell anybody what her errand was, but still manifesting a decided inten-tion to find the man. At length she came to the object of her search and at once informed him that she had come to offer herself as a burden for him to carry over the Genesee Falls on the tight rope. She expressed an earnest desire to be carried over the narrow bridge of hemp, and was quite certain she would not embarrass the acrobat by her timid ity. THE FOREIGN DIPLOMATIC CORPS. - Washington at you are aware, is the residence of most of the members of the foreign diplomatic corps—
They live here quietly, and most of them greatly at their case. The present British Minister, Lord Lyons, occupies the residence of Lord Napier, on H, between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets. He is a quiet, unprefending centleman at horough Fordishmen in pretending gentleman, a thorough Englishman in his habits and manners, and is about forty-two years of age. His salary is $22,500 per sunum. Lord Lyons has been attache to the embassy at Athens, next Secretary of Legation and late Minister to Florence. He has a Secretary of Legation and two attaches. Count de Sartiges, the French Minister, resides on Georgetown Heights. He is greatly esteemed here, although somewhat eccentric, standing high in the favor of his Imperial master, Napoleon the Third, and wielding considerable influence in society at this point. There are two Secretaries of Legation, an attache and a chancelier connected with this mission. Count de Sartiges is now on a visit to his native country. Sartiges is now on a visit to his native country The Russian Minister, Mr. Edward de Stockel, resides on G, corner of twenty first steet. Waldemar de Bodisco. his Secretary of Lega-tion, is the nephew of the late well known Mr. Bodisco, who occupied the position of Russian Minister for many years at this point, having married an accomplished lady, a native of George twon, who is now at St. Petersburg with her dren, the Court of the Emperor Alexander. The Spanish minister, Senor Don Gabriel Garciay Tassara, minister, Senor Don Gabriel Carciay Tassara rions, occupies a handsome building on I, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets. Baron Fr. Von Gerolt is still the Prussian monister, though I believe he is now absent, leaving Baron Von Grabow in charge of the business of the legation. Austria still continues to retain Chevalier Hulseman, famous in the recollection of the country on account of his celebrated, contest with David accountry on the street of the country on the street of the stree account of his celebrated contest with Day Webster. A LAUGHABLE INCIDENT .- On Wednesday morning last, among the large crowd congregated at the Covington and Lexington railroad depot, in this city, awaiting the arrival of the down train from Lexington, might have been seen a tall, fashionably dressed, and very good looking young gentleman, in company with a young lady of medium hight, well rounded form, and voice of flute-like sweetness. She wore a heavy veil, and therefore we could not see her features, but nev-ertheless her eyes were bright and flashing, their brilliancy penetrating the webby texture that concealed her face. They appeared to be very impatient for the arrival of the train, and when the patient for the arrival of the train, and when the shrill neigh of the iron horse suddenly broke upon the stillness of the morning, reverberating up and down the Licking, prolonged by the elfin echoes hidden in the interstices of the cliffs and crags, we noticed that the young lady gave a convulsive start, we knew not whether of joy or fear, and clung closer to the arm of her handsome companion. When the train drew up at the depot, the anxious couple eatered the baggage car—not, however, before they were discovered by an elderly matron who was on the train. The latter, as ly matron who was on the train. The latter, as soon as she distinguished the errant pair, rushed into the car where they had taken refuge, and, with outstretched arms and tear-bedewed checks, clapsed the trembling dam-sel to her breast, exclaiming, "My daughter, O! my daughter!" The maiden's companion, evimy daughter!" The maiden's companion, evidently frenzied by the prespect of loosing his prize, grasped her about the waist with his strong arm; then commenced the lud the daughter's neck clasped in a vice-like embrace, and the lover's arms were woven about her waist, and each were pulling in contrary directions, in the endeavor to snatch the maiden from the other. to the place, and the air was filled with their cheers and hurrahs. Cynthiana (Ky.) Age. ports of foreign produce and merchandise at New York for the month of August, although not equal, says the Journal of Commerce, to the total received in July, have been larger than for any corresponding month in the history of the port. They amount, in the aggregate, to $24,649,591. The largest previous aggregate in August of any year was in 1856, when the total amounted to $28,919,655. The withdrawals from warehouse exceed the receipts, so that the total in bond even after adding the transports from other ports, will, probably, show a slight decrease, and must be a ness throughout the entire eight months, being $181,100,585, against $99,914,557 for the same for the month of August have been very both in produce and specie. The shipments of produce and merchandise exceed six millions of dollars, while the exports of specie also exceed the very large total for the same month in 1857, although not equal to the aggregate shipments of coin and bullion during either of the preceding three months. The Journal says:

Owing to the great falling off in the shipments of breadstuffs from this port, the total exports of of breadstuffs from this port, the total exports of both produce and merchandise for the past eight months, while larger than for the corresponding period of last year, are less than the total shipments of specie. We look for a partial revival of the grain shipments this autumn, but the bulk of this trade will depend very much on the disposition of producers. If they hold back their crops, leaving their own debts unpaid, simply because the prices do not suit them, they will only force out the gold instead, and reduce the homevaluation still lower upon themselves; while if valuation still lower upon themselves; while if they will pay their own debts with their produce at whatever may be the current rate, they will encourage its shipment, retain the coin at home, and thus by lessening the surplus of produce and increasing the bulk of gold, strengthen the market continually, and realize far more for their entire crop, than they could obtain by hoarding phis Ledger furnishes the following:

Mr. Hill had to submit to the outrage, in thus depriving him of his servant, from the force of the circumstances surrounding him. About five years circumstances surrounding him. The last number of the Lexington Statesman contains an elaborate assault on the Courier, designating its course as "wayward, disorganizing, inconsistent, and factious," and declares that it did the Democratic party far "more harm than good" during the recent canvass.

It seems to us it would have been better for the editor of the Statesman, before making these charges against us, to have been fully assured that they might not hold equally good against himself, and that whilst accosing us of "inconsistency" and of having done the "party more harm than good," the same accusations could be brought with equal, if not greater, force against the course of the Statesman and its editor.

At the commencement of the late canvass the discussion of the doctrine of Congressional protection, the Statesman assumed the position that the "right to legislate for the protection of slave property carried with it the right to legislate for its exclusion," and elaborated the position in the fellowing words:

"Congressional legislation in protection of slavery in the Territories, irresitibly carries with it the power to legislate for its exclusion. The duty or right of Congress to protect caunot be maintained without admitting the power to abelish. If Congress can intervene for one purpose, it can for another. The South cannot assert a principle and expect to reap only its advantages. We must abide its full enforcement.

Here, then, is the position of the Statesman clearly and distinctly enunciated. It admits of but one interpretation, and that interpretation indicates a marked difference between the views advanced by the Statesman and those held by the gentlemen constituting the Democratic State ticket. In the extract above quoted it is very clearly stated that to "admit the right of Congress to protect cannot be maintained without admitting the power to abolish." If this be true, then is Gov. Magoffin placed in rather a strange position. He certainly holds that Congress has the right to protect slave property in the Territories, and so declared in his inaugural, and, according to the language of the Statesman, he "cannot maintain the right to protect without admitting the power to abolish." Gov. Magoffin has conceded in his inaugural the right to protect slavery, and this concedes, according to the Statesman, the very principle claimed by the Black Republicans. Of course, it is unnec essary for us to defend Gov. Magoffin from the monstrous heresies of his Secretary. Indeed, we have no doubt that on this doctrine the Statesman has changed its position, recanted its error and now stands side by side with Gov. Magoffin in his declaration that Congress has the right to protect slavery in the Territories. With this glaring inconsistency on the part of the Statesman staring it in the face, and this radical difference between its views and those of Gov. Magof fin, how can the Statesman have the effrontery to charge us with inconsistency? We appeal to the Democracy of the whole State, and fearlessly ask them whether during the pendeney of the discussion on this question of slavery in the Territories, we have ever maintained doctrines so ocious, so at war with the rights of the South, and so opposed to the views of Gov. Magoffin, as those proclaimed in the article in the Statesman, which we have quoted above. But this is not all. Not only did the Statesma in the article above alluded to, virtually surrender the whole question in controversy between Democrats and Black Republicans, but its editor went one step further. He not only declares that to admit the right to legislate for its maintenance carries with it the right to exclude slavery, but he further asserts that the right to protect carries erty. Here, too, there is, or rather was, a marked discrepancy between the views of Gov. Magoffin and his Secretary, the editor of the Statesman .-In order that we may not do injustice to any one we will quote the brief, yet orthodox opinion on this point from the inaugural of Governer Magof-"The power to protect DOES NOT carry along with

Here, then, is Gov. Magoffin holding views in direct antagonism to the Lexington Statesman. Gov. Magoffin's position is sound-the Statesman is unsound. We, during the entire canvass, entertained and advocated the same doctrine in regard to the right of Congress to legislate for the protection of slave property in the Territories; and, at the same time denied to it the right to legislate for its abolition or its exclusion; and now, when the canvass is over, and Gov. Magoffin is seen to occupy substantially the same position which we occupy, and the very reverse of that held by the Statesman, with a coolness altogether unapproachable, the Statesman vents its bitterness against the "Courier" and charges it with being inconsistent, disorganizing, wayward and factious. Would it not be much the better policy for the Statesman to take the beam out of its own eye, and see to it that it is itself consistent, before it charges inconsistency on others. It was the view of the editor of the Statesman, in regard to the right to protest involving the power to destroy, that awakened a general distrust among the Democracy of Kentucky, and this feeling of distrust was increased, when it was heralded in Forney's Press as an expression of the views of the Kentucky Democracy. We denounced the doctrine at the time it appeared in the Statesman and this, we presume, is one of the reasons why we have been assailed as being factious and dis-

About the same time the strictures appeared in our paper on what we conceived to be the monstrous doctrines of the Statesman, we were led, perhaps too hastily, to suppose that Maj. Breckinridge entertained similar sentiments, and in the heat of an embittered contest, in some measure implicated him as holding similar doctrines as those advocated by his organ. But in this we are convinced we did Maj. Breck inridge injustice, and certainly did so unintentionally. We have learned from the most reliable authority that Maj. Breckinridge not only did not approve the position of the Statesman on the right to protect carrying with it the right to destroy," but on the contrary, held a precisely opposite doctrine, and assured the editor of that paper that his argument was (to use Maj. Brecknridge's own language) a "non sequitur."

We condemned the doctrine maintained in the Statesman because we believed it to be wrong, and not because it happened to be enunciated through the columns of the Statesman. We opposed it not only because we believed it to be wrong, but because we knew it could not be successfully defended before the people of Kentucky nor were we alone in this belief. A prominent gentleman on the State ticket assured us before the election that if the views of the Statesman and the Cincinnati Enquirer were to constitute the issues of the canvass, he would feel bound in duty to his principles and to himself to decline the race. So in regard to the candidacy for the Legislature. An able member elect of the present Legislature assured us that he would not consent to make the race until he saw our candidates were all right. When he saw that the correct position was taken, he announced himself a candidate, made the race, and was triumphantly elected. And so, we presume it was throughout the State. No Democratic can didate was injured by the advocacy of the doctrines held by the Courier. If any were injured at all, it was because their views on this question were not explicitly known. But we appeal to the Statesman, in all candor and fairness, to say, himself being the judge, whether our views or his own, as we have published above, were more calculated to injure the Democratic party and at the same time place it in a false and indefensible position. The Statesman asserts that the Courier, during the recent canvass, did more harm than good .-How has the editor learned this fact? and if the Courier did harm to the State ticket, is the editor of the Statesman quite assured that his paper did not also do "more harm than good?" We have no means, of course, of judging accurately of the good or evil done either by the Statesman or Cougood or eval done either by the Statesman or Courier; but we know one fact, and the editor of the Statesman also knows it, that in the counties of Fayette, Jessamine, Scott, and Woodford, where the circulation of the Statesman is probably larger than in any other counties, the Democracy lost on the majority of 1817. But, of course, we will be more charitable than to say that in the opinion of T. BLANCAGNIEL, Third street.

DAILY COURIER four-Affile of the Democracy of the State the Statesman, during the canvass, did "more harm than good."

> against the Courier for its allusions to Mej. Breckseen, to say against Forney's Press and his correspondents, who have been placing the friends of ur Vice President, and the Vice President himself, as favorable to Judge Douglas. Paragraphs are published in all the Douglas papers of the North, to the effect that the Breckinridge wing of the Democratic party, in this State and Tennessee. are working for Judge Douglas. We have seen no reply to these charges in the Statesman-no lenunciation of the Press or its correspondents. has been falsifying the position of the Democracy of this State, and circulating its Freesoil heresies broadcast over Northern Kentucky, and vet the Statesman is slient in regard to and has never denounced it. So in State, the doctrine that a Territorial Legislature has the right to prohibit slavery has been advocated by at least one paper, and the Statesman has not poured out on that paper the vials of its wrath. To us this certainly looks ominous. Papers may declare that the friends of Major Breckinridge in Kentucky are for Judge Doulgas, and disseminate their semi-Abolition heresies through the State, and the Statesman will utter no word of complaint. But when the Courier assumes a position in favor of a comolete recognition of the rights of the South; when we demand that there shall be no discrimation against slavery, but that it shall be protected by Territorial or Congressional enactments when necessary, we are charged with being factious > disorganizing, wayward, and inconsistent. The doctrines we maintained during the recent canvass were right, and we shall continue in their advocacy. We have no principle to retract or When the Territorial Legislature fails modify. pass laws to protect slave property, and when the courts are unable to give us adequate protec tion, then we are in favor of Congress passing laws to protect the citizens in the enjoyment o their slave property. Or if, as Judge Douglas says, a law was passed by the Kansas Legislature on the 9th of February 1858, to abolish slavery then if the the courts do not pronounce that legision unconstitutional, we shall insist that Con gress shall next winter wipe out that act and pass aws protecting slavery in Kansas. If that is 'slave codeism." the Statesman is welcome to make the most it can of it.

> But we are charged with being factious. We leny this most earnestly. In this whole controversy our sole aim has been to elucidate correct principles, and we are certainly satisfied with the verdict of the people of the State. We know that to-day the great heart of the Kentucky Democray beats true and loyal to the constitutional rights f the South, and for them we have contended, if not with ability, at least with sincerity and earn-

We took the position we have advocated no rom any factious motive, but because we believed was right; not because we thought it would ouild up this or that man's political fortunes, but ecause we believed the right of protection to slave follow the Federal Constitution wherever it night lead. If the Courier is factious, then are Merinos, Piain, Figured and Bayadere Delaines, he leading Democrats in the South factious-Mason, of Virginia, Boyd and Mason, of Kentacky, Clay, of Alabama, Brown and Davis, of Mississippi, and, in fact, the orthodox Democracy of the entire South. Our attitude is one of self defense. The South seeks not to commit aggres sions on the North; but, at the same time, can not, under any circumstances, yield its constitu-

We have no doubt that a full examination o ne question has convinced the editor of the Statesman, that his first impressions on the question of Congressional protection were wrong, and he should have the candor to acknowledge his Delaines, white Goods of all kinds, Chints, doerror. His acceptance of the Secretaryship is a tacit indorsement of Gov. Magoffin's views, and although he has unsuccessfully endeavored to show up our changes and inconsistency, we will not retaliate upon him by twitting him with his many don't sell cheaper than can be found else inconsistencies and political blunders; though we can't help remarking that an attentive reader of the Statesman will not fail to discover that the view of diverting attention from the political in consistencies of the Lexington Statesman, rather than with a view of fastening on us the charge.

SENATOR DOUGLAS AT THE SOUTH .- The Rich mond Enquirer still devotes itself to Mr. Douglas, critising his paper on popular sovereignty in sucessive chapters, and liking him less and less. I concludes its latest attack as follows:

Enough for the present. But we have my fore to say about this very flimsy essay, which we regret to recognise as emanating from the pen of an American statesman. We will not desist entirely until we have shown it up in every phase of the weakness of its follows?" of the weakness of its fallacy.' The Raleigh (N. C.) Standard has a review three columns in length, the substance of which is com rised in a paragraph:

"We have read this essay with care, and with every disposition to do justice to its author. We have been forced to the conclusion that Judge Douglas is the advocate of Territorial or so called quatter sovereignty. It is hardly necessary to add that this doctrine is not to be found in the Cincinnati platform; and that it can never meet he approval of the National Democracy. the Democracy of the slaveholding States.

NEW BEDFORD, March 5, 1858.

GENTLEMEN: I have used the Peruvian Syrup for the past three years with the most gratifying success in cases of Dysepsia, (various forms,) Chronic Diarrhosa, General and Nervous Debility, Neuralgia, Erysipelas, and various diseases of the Skin; also for Chiorosis. Leucorrhea, Prolapsus Uterl, Suppressed Courses and female compilaints generally. In the last class of compisints particularly, I have found the medicine to have great power, and for Bolis I consider it an infallible remedy.

The Peruvian Syrup combines valuable alterative and tonic properties, and is of remarkable efficacy in all chonic distasses characterized by want of vitality.

THE RIVER was slowly falling on Saturday, but at a sand yesterday, with two feet eight inches water in the canal last evening, by the mark. During the previous 48 hours it had fallen only an inch at the head of the falls. The weather was very warm Saturday, with a light rain in the evening, and heavy rains during the night and yestery morning. The rain extended some distance up the river, and may make another rise, though at Pittsburg, Saturday, there were only 12 inches water at Glass-house, which is about the lowest stage this season, most too low for even the wheel-barrow fleet. Hence to Cincinnati but 3½ feet water was re-ported at the Flats and Warsaw, while along the Lower Ohio the bars are very troublesome; the McLelland, which arrived yesterday direct from Memphis, found but 81/2 feet water on the mos

A telegraphic dispatch was yesterday received by a firm in this city, stating that the steamer Rochester, bound from this port for Cincinnai, had sunk somewhere in the Ohio river. The Rochester left this port on the 2d inst. The accident occurred on Thursday morning last, and the boat was probably very near her destination. She had a full cargo of hemp, tobocco and other produce. The Rochester was owned in part by Capt. J. J. Robinson, her commander. The boat and cargo were fully insured.

By the following from one of our New Or leaus exchanges, of last Tuesday, it appears that low water is prevailing in that region:

The low stage of water in the river from Greenville down is the most serious drawback to the steamboat business as present. No less than three boats have grounded in making the landing at Bonaldsonville within a week past. The Gossamer came through the mouth of Old river, reporting three fect on the bar. She reports the State drudging boat lying idle at the mouth of the river. The Grosse Tete will soon have fluished her repairing and refitting and be ready to resume her work. The Voilet, a new, light-draught stern-wheeler, arrived yesterday in charge of Capt. Roberts, who will take her into one of the tributaries. The Camden is expected here in a few days to take the piace of the Aline in the Opelousas trade, which boat had to return on Sunday, unable to enter the mouth of Old river. There was a rumor on the levee f a chaonel of five feet through the bar, but the pil is of the Aline sounded it thoroughly and found no more than three feet. The A. W. Baker and W. S. Reliable accounts just 'received maintain that Senoir Fucute, who held a cabinet appointment under Comonforts' administration, has been appointed Minister of Foreign Affairs, the duties of which were heretofore discharged by Senor O'Campo, who remains in charge of the home department under the constitutional government.

Our consuls, with the excention of Black, at

Our consuls, with the exception of Black, at the City of Mexico, are everywhere officially recognized. The most friendly feelings are expressed by the Liberalists for the United States, from which they expect assistance in their struggle against the Reactionists. The Americans in Mexico, however, utter their surprise that so much indifference is manifested in this country towards the Liberal party who continue to be enthusiasti-cally animated by the hope of success. The imnediate want of money alone crippling their en-orgies. Notwithstanding this, troops continue to be raised for operating against the City of Mexico. McLane has returned without a treaty, but the natters in interest between the two countries are leave no doubt of an early accommodation. If Lerdo had been in Vera Cruz, it is probable, according to all accounts from that city, a convention or treaty would have been concluded. Eight of the crew of the Brooklyn had been tried for desertion, running away with the ship's boat, and leaving her among the breakers. It was reported in Vera Cruz that Miramon had reported in vera Criz that Miramon had called a junta at the Capital to appoint a Vice President or substitute, as he, himself, contemplated taking the field against Degollado, who was at San Luis Potosi organizing his forces, which amounted to about 12,000 men.

St. Louis, Sept. 11.—The fire yesterday was more disestrous than first reported. The loss to Gay & Co. will probably reach $50,000, upon which there is an insurance of $40,000. The total loss by the fire was upwards of $80,000
